

Welcome to Balticshop!

As the winter snows melt into spring, we thought about everything that makes the summer months great. Looking forward to being in the great outdoors, new categories in our Summer 2007 catalogue include Gardening, and of course - Summer Solstice!

Building on tradition, offering folk music and ethnographic jewelry along with new designs and musical compositions, our catalogue imagery includes archival photos from years past. Scenes include the cities of Tallin and Liepāja, as well as country outings and summer swims. Just as these moments in time become heirlooms for future generations, so we have also thought about the gifts we offer which can be given on any occasion. And, summer also means celebrating graduations, confirmations, and weddings! To help you shop for that special gift, we've created categories which may help for certain occasions, including confirmations, as well as gifts "for her" and "for him" (though we're sure some gifts will be enjoyed alike by both!)

Based on your selections and favorites during the holiday season, we have also added pages to Jewelry, CDs, and our Children's section. Herbal organic teas were also quite popular, so we've expanded our organic section to include a variety of items - from essential oils from Lithuania, to a collection of natural soaps by Latvia's premier soap manufacturer. If you are ordering for the first time from us, be sure to check us out online at www.balticshop.com. There, you can enter the SKU number for each item that's located right before the price. Shipping charges are calculated with every item you add. You may also call us toll-free in the US at 1-800-506-2313 or write us at info@balticshop.com

Thanks to all of our regular customers.
We look forward to getting to know the new ones, too!

Silver Jewelry

According to archeological excavations, the women and men of the ancient Baltic and Finno-Ugric tribes living along the Baltic Seacoast adorned themselves considerably with jewelry. The earliest examples were made of amber, seashells, bone and copper, with the addition of silver and gold in later centuries. We continue the tradition today, displaying our Baltic roots by wearing true reproductions, as well as modern pieces inspired by ethnic motifs.

AMBER JEWELRY

Amber jewelry

Though it is found elsewhere in the world as well, amber from the deep and cold Baltic Sea is unmatched in both quality and color grade. The ancient Romans greatly valued amber, and established a trade route, known as the "Amber Road", stretching as far north as modern-day Estonia and Karelia. We present our new selection of jewelry in the three main colors of amber, the "Pearl of the Baltic": translucent "honey amber", opaque "milk amber", and the even rarer "green amber".

As many celebrate their confirmations in early summer months, we have chosen books and rosaries for those of Christian Faith. Books include the translated texts of Mother Theresa and the Pope, as well as writings by Father Stanislovas. For those interested in history and architecture, the second volume of "Latviešu Luterāņu Baznīcas", is now available: a comprehensive resource on Lutheran churches in Latvia which features beautiful color photographs of both exterior facades and interior wood carvings.

The Narunovskis Collection is among the finest collections of Latvian jewelry and belongs to the most popular items at BalticShop. Master jeweler Raimonds Narunovskis meticulously handcrafts each and every item, reflecting timeless style and elegance in his work.

The Artist, Margaret (Micki) K. Vinkels, works out of her studio in Branford, CT. A Baltic-American, she gives her glass creations a uniqueness by using traditional motifs in her work. Margrieta's Glass sparkles with radiance, exhibiting both the quality of fine glass and individually hand-etched designs. Both suncatchers and jewelry boxes integrate a variety of depth of hues joined with a silver-colored metal solder. Each piece exemplifies the artist's mastery of the material, resulting in luminous, timeless pieces.

Jewelry inspired by the tragic love story of Turaidas Roze (Rose of Turaida). In the 16th century, a young woman, called Roze because of her great beauty, nightly met her betrothed, Viktor, in the great sandstone cave below the fortress of Turaida. One evening, a soldier, bewitched by Roze's beauty, sabotaged the lovers' meeting and tried to have his way with Roze. The virtuous Roze tied a kerchief, given to her by Viktor and inscribed with "Love is stronger than Death", around her neck and told the soldier that the kerchief had magic that would protect her from the blade of any sword. Roze urged the soldier to test the magic, and thus the unwitting soldier slew her down. To this day, couples honor Roze's grave with roses and their own vows of love.

Children's toys

Give the child in your life a break from electronic bells and whistles! You'll be happy to know that like generations before, today's children, if given the opportunity, will delight in the clever way a wooden push-toy duck slaps his feet, think of stories to create with finger-puppets, and snuggle with handmade stuffed animals. These are the kinds of toys you will want to save for your children's children.

An international classic, A. A. Milne's philosophical Pooh bear was, and still is, extremely popular in the Baltics – the series was one of the few Western works of literature allowed under Soviet rule. Don't be surprised to hear adults freely quoting Pooh, especially the favorite: "You never can tell with bees..." If you grew up in a Latvian emigrant family in the 70s or 80s, chances are there was a "Trīs no Pārdaugavas" LP in your family's music collection. The musical trio from the East Coast enchanted audiences with satirical songs about the Latvian community in America and arranged new renditions of popular songs. In 1973, "Trīs no Pārdaugavas" released one of the first Latvian emigrant LPs for children, Cīrcēņa Kāzās. A must-have for music fans, even those without kids!

Let's guess – if you don't have a birch tree in your front yard, you most likely wish you could. The love of the Northern landscape is ingrained in us, descendants from a land with such natural beauty. Now that spring has finally come, nature is awakening, and it's time to get down and dirty in the garden, or at least spruce-up the yard in time for BBQ season!

Since prehistoric times Northern Europeans have known the healthful therapeutic benefits of the sauna. We now offer an assortment of products that will allow you to recreate the experience in your own home. For the home sauna: a traditional head-rest, but now with a moisture-wicking linen support; a woolen mitt for hot handles; and of course, wooden buckets and ladles. Don't have a sauna? Natural honey skin scrubs and essential oils will leave your skin spa-perfect in your own bath. Instead of tropical eucalyptus, freshen your restroom with a spray of baltic brich, aspen or linden (if not inclined to use them for a traditional "beating"!)

FOLKLORE

The languages, songs, legends and traditional crafts of the Baltic countries are what make us unique – our collective folklore. Unlike many cultures, we are lucky that we have not assimilated and lost this cultural treasure. Today, we still have artisans, musicians and ethnographers that keep our history alive.

In the Northern lands, summer was the most important time of the year; in a few short months, enough food had to be produced to last the long, dark winter. And so the Summer Solstice – the longest day and the shortest night of the year – has been celebrated as a glorification of the Sun since time immemorial. Estonia and Latvia are the only two countries left in the world where the Summer Solstice is a national holiday! So hold on to your roots – make a big bonfire, sing 'til you're hoarse, and snack on fresh cheese while enjoying a cold beer.

Baltic History

Baltic historians and writers have rightfully earned a reputation as prolific documentarians of their histories. However, if you're just embarking on the journey of getting to know the Baltics' past, navigating through the maze of annals can be a daunting task. BalticShop has put together a selection of books about the Second World War, a defining moment in history for Estonians, Latvians, and Lithuanians alike.

Estonian composer Arvo Pärt is arguably one of the most well-known names in new music and his compositions have been performed by the Hillard Ensemble and the Kronos Quartette. Part's unique style of 'mystic minimalism' has inspired music lovers around the world; American composer, Steve Reich, has said that "Part's music fulfills a deep human need that has nothing to do with fashion."

Margarita Stāraste

In her long career, Margarita Stāraste has illustrated more than 20 Latvian children's books. It is no exaggeration when we say that there is not a Latvian alive in Latvia today who does not hold Stāraste's charming realm of personified flowers, bugs and animals as one of their fondest childhood memories. In her 93rd year, the artist continues to bring her magical world alive, and we are happy to offer you a selection of her best-known work.
